

DEAR PARENTS

As part of KHDA's efforts to support students and strengthen the partnership between schools and families, KHDA has developed a parent guide titled "Supporting Your Child During Distance Learning."

The guide provides practical tips to help parents support their children's learning, wellbeing, and communication with the school during distance learning.

We encourage all parents to review the guide and benefit from the recommendations to support their children during this period.

SAFEGUARDING TIPS:

Be the Parents We Want to Be

We all want to give our children what they need to grow to their full potential, and as parents we play an important role in their development, but sometimes our parenting is affected by carrying too much for too long without the support we need,

How to empower yourself during challenges?

- Understand that things we can't control doesn't have to determine who we are or how we act.
- Buffer ourselves and our children against the effects of even the most intense ones.
- Reach out to supports and services, it can feel difficult, but it helps us manage the load during challenging times
- Build our resilience and our children's by strengthen skills and relationships that help us cope, examples of things to do that seem very small, but can make a difference over time:
 - Sitting and breathing deeply
 - Playing I spy with your child
 - Sharing a walk or a snuggle
